

Suits against Dr. Teed.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Dr. Teed, the leader of the Koreshan Community, which has established "heavens" in the suburbs of Washington Heights and Normal Park, was made defendant to-day in a one-hundred-thousand-dollar damage suit, brought by Sidney C. Miller, manager of the National Publishing Company.

Mr. Miller's hair, his attorney says, has been prematurely turned gray through trouble brought about by Teed. The plaintiff's wife fell under the influence of the Koreshanite teachings and became one of Teed's followers, leaving her husband and beautiful home.

It is said a number of similar suits are about to be brought against Teed, one of a criminal nature. An indignation meeting of citizens of Normal Park has been held to consider Teed's invasion of the neighborhood.

The New York Times

Published: May 15, 1892

Copyright © The New York Times