Science friction

In which the laws of nature are repealed, "free thinkers" dare to reveal the Truths horded by the World Scientific Conspiracy, and pigs (powered, no doubt, by suppressed Nazi UFO technology) fly.

Extropian Transhuman Page and the The Extropy Institute Home Page

I like these folks, the Extropians. They think big, even when discussing the small world of nanotechnology. I like their notion that the Universe is humanity's oyster if we'd just get off our butts (or ditch our primitive meatbrains) and go for it with Transhuman Technologies. Some of their stuff I think is right on the money, just way ahead of its time. (However, that head-freezing stuff, I dunno...) The meek may inherit the earth, but the Transhumans will remake the galaxies in their own image. Optimism, science fictionish ideas and idealism, and grand thinking on a cosmic scale. See you at the End of the Universe Party!

Time travel with your new Hyperdimensional Resonator today!

This article from Strange magazine is an interview with Steven Gibbs, who purports to help others travel through time after they buy his "hyperdimensional resonators." Familiar plot elements include time cops, Grey aliens, the Philadelphia Experiment (see below), Men in Black, government coverups ("It all began when I started travelling up to Canada to help these people activate a time portal and it really made some people mad in the government...."), and the Something Terrible that's going to happen in 2012.

The American College of Orgonomy

What do orgasms, weather control, and alien space drives have in common? Wilhelm Reich discovered the Truth and, according to his followers, was crucified for it. See also the Public Orgonomic Resaerch Exchange and the Wilhelm Reich Home Page.

The Farsight Institute

One of the most shameless displays on the Weird Wide Web.

What's Buddha up to at the Galactic Federation? What was inside that spaceship at the heart of Comet Hale-Bopp, and what did it have to do with Atlantis, Martians, and "subspace" (a term coined on Star Trek)? What really brought down TWA Flight 800? What's the history of the Martians living under our feet--and what does the Sinister Secret Government know about them? How much money can one man bilk out of credulous True Believers and soul-traveler wannabes?

At this site, old-fashioned spiritualism is wrapped in the sheep's-clothing of scientific terminology. The Farsight Institute's "students" specialize in "Scientific Remote Viewing" (SRV), a fancy term for hypnotic trances that allow enhanced psycho-spiritual awareness of distant objects, places, and even times. What the site doesn't tell you is that "Scientific Remote Viewing" is a term from the same lexicon as "Creation Science."

According to Courtney Brown--Emory University professor (of political science), founder of the Farsight Institute and author of the goofy New Age book Cosmic Voyage--his people have utilized SRV to journey far and wide--from deep space (where Buddha and other ETs decide what to do with us next, and the alien-inhabited metal sphere inside Hale-Bopp utilized technology created in Atlantis) to the manipulative machinations of the U.S. Gubmint cover-ups (oh, of course) of SRV and other revelations. For $3000 you can learn to do it too; advanced training courses costs extra.

Richard Hoagland's Enterprise Mission

Personally--in my heart of hearts---I would like nothing more than for Richard Hoagland to be right. But unlike a lot of folks, that's not enough to convince me that he's not just another kook in a suit. It seems that this rogue scientist and space conspiracy whistle-blower, Hoagland, believes that NASA stands for "No Alien Surprises Allowed." So he set up the Enterprise Mission to expose the Truths that the allegedly secretive space agency doesn't want us to know.

Chiefly, Hoagland claims to have proof that the Apollo astronauts discovered an extraterrestrial welcoming committee on the moon, that the lunar surface is crowded with alien buildings and other artifacts, and that similar artifacts on Mars possess shocking connections to ancient constructions here on Earth--and of course NASA and the Secret Sinister Government know all about them. In fact, the Enterprise Mission sponsored a seminar to reveal that NASA doctored the original Mars Pathfinder images after realizing that the first pictures (broadcast live) showed evidence of artificial objects!

Hoagland is the modern Moses behind the "Face on Mars" subgenre of space conspiracy theories, and from there he spins an almost cabalistic theory of cosmic energies and suppressed Truths that has earned him modest notoriety and a small but earnest discipleship. This site is a treat for watchers of conspiracy propogators and "respectable kooks" (those with doctorates), and a textbook case for "You see what you wish to see." See also My Favorite Martian: Richard Hoagland, referenced below.

Michael Unum: UFO Technology Hacker

Michael Unum is a visionary. A techno-rebel with a cause. A man who seeks to free the suppressed science of energy-efficient space drives from the clutches of those who would keep the rest of us slaves to (at least) gravity. Or maybe he's just a kook. Either way, he's published a book, The UFO Technology Hackers Manual, and would like to sell you a copy. Also included here is data on proposed space drives supposedly retested with the U.S. patent office.

Quote: "Within the unknown and the unexplained, lie the parameters for a new paradigm. As scientist, inventors, and hackers, we must go forth bravely into this new territory. If we were to turn away, to return to our comfortable ignorance, we may never do what we all dream. To advance science, technology, and human discovery to the next level."

Unum's other site, with eyebrow-raising conclusions about the HAARP project, is here.

Kencayd Consulting on Ear Candling

Can sticking burning candles in your ear not only provide health benefits but make you more relaxed and centered? Look here for possible answers, but remember this site's admonition: "...almost anyone can stick a candle in your ear, what you need to watch for is professionalism." So true.

The Philadelphia Experiment from A to Z

In 1943, did the U.S. Navy make the U.S.S. Eldridge disappear? Was it made invisible, teleported hundreds of kilometers, or sent into another dimension? When it reappeared, were most of the sailors violently sick while others were missing, never to return, and others were out of their minds? Were five men fused to the metal in the ship's structure? Who were the mysterious informants who tried to blow the whistle on the project? Were extraterrestrial or extra-dimensional beings involved? Or was it all just a B movie starring Nancy Allen? Here's a site provided by the author of an upcoming book devoted to the legendary claims. Another Philadelphia Experiment site considers the current whereabouts of the Eldridge and the weirdness purported to be still haunting it. See also:

The Taos Hum

The "Taos Hum" is a low-pitched sound heard in numerous places across the US and UK. It is usually heard only in quiet environments, and is often described as sounding like a distant diesel engine. Since it has proven undetectable by microphones or VLF antennae, its source and nature is still a mystery. Thus it's being interpreted as evidence of (a) sinister secret government experiments, (b) extraterrestrial activity, (c) angelic or other quasi-religious New Age transcendence, (d) none of the above, (e) all of the above. Here are some links to start you, er, humming:

- The Taos Hum Home Page: Part of Bill Beatty's Weird Science site. Numerous related links.
- "Earth and Sky" radio show text: The text from an episode of the syndicated radio science series. A good intro to the topic.
- The Mysterious Taos Hum: I'm not certain what this is about, but a painting of Jesus and secret government underground tunnelling are involved.

- ELF and the Hum: A Fortean article.
- Taos Hum news: the weird version: This FTP site starts with a posting from the newsgroups alt.conspiracy and alt.mindcontrol about "The Secret War Against Medford, Oregon." It goes on from there.

The Cydonia Zone

Yes, it's the famous Face on Mars. This site is an introductory guide to this favorite Mars Mystery. Lots of internal links to related material. "Updated daily" (though not quite).

My Favorite Martian: Richard Hoagland

No collection of Cydonia links would be complete without Richard Hoagland, the techno-Moses of exo-archaeology. This introductory primer is part of the 50 Greatest Conspiracies of All Time site, and is an even-handed write-up with related links.

More about Cydonia

More photos of the Cydonia "Face" and "City" from someone responsible for much of the digital enhancement of the original NASA imagery (which automatically makes them suspect to the more cautious / suspicious observers).

A Temple of the Martian Moon Gods?

Says here that the Face proves Mars was once inhabited by pagans. "...They worshiped sky gods. They worshiped their own moons as such sky gods..."

Planetary Anomalies

The so-called planetary proof of "tetrahedral hyperdimensional energy" is where, in my opinion, Richard Hoagland's Mars-Moon theories exit the realm of the potentially provocative and enter the Loopy Zone. Proof that a great deal of Cosmic Significance can be read into very little.

Ancient Indian Aircraft Technology

3000-years-old Jules Verne or Vindalu Space Travel, Inc.? An excerpt from The Anti-Gravity Handbook, now available at very few bookstores near you.

Tachyon Healing and the Physics of Love

This site at least thinks it's talking science, so I'm putting it here, though it's another example of woolly New Age feel-goodisms decorated with pseudo-scientific tinsel. It concerns an alleged new energy source, and pretends "to understand it by referencing unusual theories of advanced physics and spiritual traditions. It is hypothesized that this is the energy of crop circle formation and an embryonic clue to a coming global transformation." The connection between tachyons and crystals remains unclear.

The Apocalyptic Files

In which an attempt is made to prove that the alleged signs and portents within the Book of Revelation are predictions of modern discoveries in the physical sciences.

The Photon Belt

Astonishingly bad astronomy and physics from (<yawn>) channeled aliens. This site includes a helpful timeline of important events surrounding this Apocalyptic cosmic non-event (e.g., learn when "...our solar system will enter an interdimensional rescue bubble that will thrust it out of the photon belt ... into a position about 3 light years from the Sirius star system"). See also A Cosmic Birth: Photon Belt, for a potpourri guaranteed to muddle your medulla. And you can't go wrong by linking directly to the source, that way-out pretty-fair-seller, You Are Becoming a Galactic Human.

According to True Believers, the Photon Belt event was supposed to occur by the end of 1996, so check these sites to find out (a) why the universe changed its mind, or (b) that it all occurred on schedule but you and I were too unenlightened to notice.

Update: Recently, I've found references to the idea that the Photon Belt event timeline is being (conveniently) rescheduled due to cosmic intervention by the benign Space Brothers or miscalculations on the part of the Earthly diviners (though Sheldon Nidle is still holding to his published timeline). The favored new date for Photon Belt entry is (act surprised), 2012.

An often-updated Nidle/Photon Belt site is The Ground Crew Project. Keep checking it out for news of the upcoming Mass UFO Landing (millions of ships, it says here. Wowza!)

Unusual Research

Cryptozoology and more.

The Searl Effect

Will the Searl Effect Generator, a "magnetic prime mover...developed by Prof. Searl with his Law of the Squares philosophy to work in harmony with nature" really provide Inverse Gravity Vehicles, Atmospheric Cleansing, Radiation Eradication, Photon Energy, Desalination, and Health Rejuvenation? If you think so, then send this guy your money...er, investment capital, because his miraculous machine is "under development and manufacturing mass production is expected to start before the end of the year." After all, "Prof. John R. Searl is offering the world new hope for a better future. He is doing this for the last time. We must be totally directed and motivated to see that Prof. Searl's gift to mankind reaches its destination." But they don't accept credit cards. And let's hope he handles science better than he does the English language; his reply to a critic--presented here--is a familiarly by-the-book example of strained "slandered genius" rhetoric and schoolyard name-calling.

UFOs and the New Physics

Lots of stuff on interstellar propulsion theories with a bent toward flying saucer engineering. Also mentions secret government projects, black helicopters, and so on.

Creation Science home page

Bad science and simplistic theology come together in this oxymoron that's still causing trouble in places such as Tennessee. In this particular Web site, these CS proponents aren't really kooks on the fringe; they're a group of engineers at AT&T Bell Laboratories, "Christians who believe strongly that people need to become better informed on this most important question of our origins." I'm a tolerant guy, but as a sometimes science writer and educator this stuff makes me shake my head in sadness. But, to be fair, here's their (diminishing, albeit slowly) side of the debate.

Comet Hale-Bopp: Iceball, fraud, or Invasion Fleet?

I love (and love to teach) astronomy, and happily carry the torch of scientific orthodoxy. So there was a time, even recently, when these sorts of sites would have really gotten my dander up. These days, though, I'm mellower and bring my sense of humor to bear at times when I would have once foamed at the mouth (although astrology still makes me grit my teeth). Comet Hale-Bopp was big, bright, and observable in scopes or the naked eye for a long time, so the New Age community recognized it in their own ways. I do get a kick out of the, um, "alternative" theories regarding the comet. The Heaven's Gate tragedy was only the tip of this sad (but revealing) iceberg. Lots of WWW sites provided their unique (or dogmatically borrowed) spin on that celestial visitor. Though it's clear that some of the sites are retro-fitting their content to incorporate the fact that the Earth wasn't destroyed or the ETs didn't land (or whatever), many True Believers still refuse to give up their new gospels. Here are just a few samples:

- ZetaTalk: Hale-Bopp: "The Hale-Bopp comet does not exist. It is a fraud, perpetrated by those who would have the teeming masses quiescent until it is too late.... They lie, and wish to have the sheep of sci.astro take their word for the appearance of this fraud."

Even for Nancy (or, rather, her extraterrestrial brain buddies, the "Zetas"), this is a particularly lengthy and foaming rant about the conspiracy to dupe the blind sheep masses with disinformation on the "fraudulent" comet that doesn't really exist, you see, but the propaganda distracts us from the real celestial evil of the approaching "12th Planet," etcetera, etcetera... Even the Shramek Object (see below) is part of the Sinister Secret Government's deceptive plot. For Nancy's ongoing one-sided dialogue on this and other topics, eavesdrop on the sci.astro newsgroup.

- Beginning November '96, American radio talk shows and the Internet (naturally) were all a-twitter with reports that a "Saturn-like object" had been spotted near Hale-Bopp. True Believers immediately flooded the airwaves and burbled the bandwidth with this "proof" that the comet isn't really a comet at all, that the long-lost "12th Planet" of fringe prophecy is returning, that a giant alien starship is on its way to Earth, that the ubiquitous Government Conspiracy is covering it up, and that Chuck Shramek (see below), the innocent True Believer who "broke the veil of silence," is being crucified publicly for his paradigm-shattering heresy. It was all a bunch of hooley triggered by a faulty amateur observation and a phone call to a radio show devoted to fringe UFO beliefs. Rational thinking be damned, the whole fooforah just added fuel to an already blazing fire of high weirdness surrounding the comet. And it's still smoldering. For details of this silliness, look at this Saturn-like Object page, The SLO Files, part of a larger, most excellent Hale-Bopp site. The site also includes sometimes eye-rolling email aimed at either boosting or busting the debunkers; for that go here.
- Chuck Shramek's home page: Here it is from the man himself. Includes links to and pontifications on other related fringe sites -- a spaceship load of highly speculative hypotheses wrapped in the mantle of a martyr being persecuted by the Establishment. Now that his allotted fifteen minutes of fame have passed, Chuck's site is getting even loopier. Proof that momentary popcult celebrity in any circle can blossom on the Internet. Andy Warhol was right.
- SHECHINAH: Proof that Hale-Bopp was to bring about the catastrophic destruction of the world, and that the Sinister Secret Government has been keeping it secret for years (until the Internet spread the Word on high)! Of course there are lots of links.

- Hale-Bopp: Comet or Massive Spaceship? Found in the Cosmic Conspiracies site, this is a posting from alt.alien.visitors.
- Companion to Hale-Bopp: Is it a Giant Spaceship? This large site certainly seems to think so.

For my semi-organized thoughts on the current Hale-Bopp weirdness, see The Millennium Comet Approacheth, an article of opinion and observation regarding Comet Hale-Bopp and what it means to our cyber-stitious culture.

Interspecies Telepathic Communication

It seems that all creatures great and small have telepathic powers and a remarkable amount to tell us (chiefly summed up as, "Straighten up or you're out of the food chain, bub"). Abundant testimonials and related links proving that Spot and Fluffy are ready to talk if only we'd tune in.

How to Tell if Your Head is About to Explode

Hyper-Cerebral Electrosis happens! Really! Would the Weekly World News lie to you?

The Secret of Antigravity

Just for fun. Buttered toast and cats are part of the equation.

Sci Cops

Another just for fun. Ever wonder who enforces the laws of gravity and thermodynamics? Look no further. Lots of stuff here that reminds me of "Firesign Theater."

Our Hollow Earth

In which the world is not the only thing flat and/or hollow.

The Flat Earthers

A fine collection of links to the Flat Earth Society and other flat-heads.

The Flat-Out Truth

"The facts are simple," says Charles K. Johnson, president of the International Flat Earth Research Society. "The earth is flat." This article from Science Digest is an interview with the High Wallah flat-head himself. Reveals who actually wrote the scripts to those faked moon landings!

The Hollow Earth: Fact or Fiction

The maker of this site has already made up his mind on the issue. Includes a list of Hollow Earth Resources.

The Hollow Earth Primer

Are thousands of UFOs stashed in cold storage in deep caverns of Earth's mantle, waiting to take over the planet and establish a new Empire? Do unearthly sentries at the poles guard the entrances to the Hollow Earth? What is Agartha, the subterranean supercivilization, like? Is the inner world threatened by the secret surface government, which is receiving help from evil "confederates of other genetic backgrounds"? Where is the gold of King Solomon and the Nazis? These are just some of the questions asked at this head-scratcher of a site.

Atlantis, Mu, and Lemuria Kingdom

Did these super-advanced civilizations perish in a global cataclysm long ago, or are they still influencing us from their subterranean super-cities and flying saucers? Inquiring minds want to know.

Agartha: Civilizations beneath our feet

Deep in the Heart of Shasta! According to this long page, millions of enlightened beings and spirits peacefully cohabit "over 100 subterranean cities that form the [underworld] Agartha Network... While Shamballa the Lesser is an inner continent, its satellite colonies are smaller enclosed ecosystems located just beneath the Earth's crust or discreetly within mountains. All cities in the Agartha Network are physical and are of the Light, meaning that they are tradition of the great mystery schools of the surface, honoring such beings as Jesus/Sananda, Buddha, Isis and Osiris ..."

The site includes information on the capitol cities of the subterranean mega-complex, including a tourist's guide to the superior million-being metropolis inside California's Mt. Shasta.

The Hollow Earth Insider

This is an "underground magazine featuring information from a dedicated worldwide group of Insiders researching, not only the Hollow Earth/Subterranean Mysteries, but also reports on the UFO/Alien connection and other earthly mysteries, the New World Order and other conspiracies...The One Worlders are losing their grip on the closest guarded secret in the world...our Hollow Earth."

In other words, mix old-fashioned Hollow Earth pseudoscience with modern right-wing paranoia and see what you get. They also include Hollow Moon stuff.

The International Flat Earth Society

Still active and publishing their nifty, weird newsletter. You have to admire their tenacity. Here's part of the introductory tract reproduced at this site:

"Our Society of Zetetics have existed for at least 6,000 years, the extent of recorded history. Extensive writing from 1492 b.c. We have been and are the Few, the Elite, the Elect, who use Logic Reason are Rational. Summed up, we are Sane and/ or have Common Sense as contrasted to the "herd" who is unthinking and uncaring. We have absorbed the Universal Zetetic Society of America and Great Britain, ZION U.S.A. ... Science 'proves' earth a 'ball' by 'scripture' words. We PROVE earth Flat by experiment, demonstrated and demonstrable. Earth Flat is a Fact, not a 'theory'!"

Here's where you find out how to join the organization, but be warned: "We do not want members who are stupid, mindless, brute beasts with two feet whose only aim is to scoff or in some way 'harm' our work -- Facts, Logic, Reason, Sanity also known as commonsense, is our aim."

Cyrus Teed's Inside-Out World

Here's an article from Omni magazine about Cyrus Teed, who proselytized the belief that not only is the Earth hollow, but that we are already living inside it.

Hollow Planets

Animated images reveal the "evidence" that Apollo 16 astronauts photographed the polar entrances to the Inner Earth.

The Flat Earth Society Online

Says here that "While the Society is not a 'crackpot' group, it is opposed to the fashionable, politically correct Spherical Earth theory, which is expounded every day by so-called 'scientists', the media and political leaders." This site is, in fact, a well made, on-target spoof in the "Subgenius" tradition.

Underground Apocalypse: selections from the "UFO Files" page

More than just another collection of saucer photos and reports. This site includes plenty of truly bizzarro stuff (such as a series called Underground Nazi Invasion of the U.S. that's 58 files long!)

Scroll way down the page and note the collection of text files describing in brain-jelling detail the Crim-Ram, or Cosmic Conflict. This fusion of Biblical interpretation and far-fringe paranoia involves ancient subterranean empires, secret societies, UFOs, the Secret Government, the assassination of Kennedy, FEMA, the conflict between Good and Evil, the serpent race (reptilians), Greys, and more, all tied together and guaranteed to purée your sense of human belief systems.

For example:

File # 001: Cosmic Confluct and the Da' Ath Wars

"... These files, along with the Judao-Christian prophesies on which they are based, could be considered a type of psychological anti-virus designed to counteract the 'virulent,' deceptive and propagandist lies which have been forced on the collective consciousness of humanity by 'certain powers,' keeping the majority of 'human sheep' blinded to the fundamental truths of reality, and forcing upon them a false perception of reality designed to keep the human spirit weak and subjected to the 'powers' behind the 'grand deception' of the 'cosmic conspiracy' as many in the know have now come to refer to it."

File # 007: Caverns, Dungeons, and Labyrinths

"... Since these reptilian or reptilian controlled powers of evil thrive in the darkness, then the method needed to defeat them, to destroy them and to eventually conquer them (the saurians or the serpent races, that is) would be to shine the 'light' of truth against these lairs of evil, focus that 'light' like a laser beam, and tear apart the very 'darkness' within which these ancient powers thrive...[and] set out to ally ourselves with those societies hidden beyond or below the surface of this world, our ancient human cousins, who have fought and battled this infernal race since ancient times."

File # 011: Casualties of a Cosmic War

Is an advanced civilization of reptilian-humanoids dwelling in caverns beneath Salt Lake City? If so, what are its connections to the U.S. government and Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative? You be the judge.

Miscellaneous mysteries & monsters

In which goats are sucked dry in Mexico, beastly behemoths haunt the American Northwest, and we learn what it really means to have an open mind.

Chupacabra: The Vampire Goatsucker

The Himalayas have the Yeti, the Pacific Northwest has Bigfoot, Scotland has Nessie, cable television has Pat Robertson... Now Puerto Rico, Mexico, and Central America have their own inhuman creature--the Chupacabra. Nicknamed "the Goatsucker" because of its habit of killing and draining the blood of farm animals, this monster has been widely reported to the extent of inspiring TV coverage, merchandising, and political satire cartoons. Is it a demon, an alien, or a figment of cultural imagination? Let these sites help you decide:

- ✦ The Chupacabra Home Page: Princeton University student and Puerto Rican native Tito Armstrong explores various notions about the beastie (including the obligatory

"government cover-up" theory) in his nifty site.

- ✧ "Mystery Creature Causes Havoc in Puerto Rico": An article from the Strange magazine site.
- ✧ "Puerto Rico Vampire Feeds Fear and Satire": It's not official until The Fortean Times writes about it.
- ✧ Alien Life Forms: Categorizes ol' Chupe as an unknown species of visiting ET.

The Western Bigfoot Society Home Page

Portland's own Ray Crowe invites you to the WBS's monthly meetings. Or you can subscribe to the newsletter. Either way, I'm looking over my shoulder next time I'm camping in the Cascades.

The Demon Possession Handbook

How to tell if someone is, not how to do it yourself. Warning: the Fundamentalist Christian content of this site may be offensive to some readers.

Lisa Marie is an impostor created by the Scientologists!

I think this is serious, but I'm not sure. This site purports to reveal evidence that the real Lisa Marie Presley disappeared in 1977 and the gal seen (for a while) with Michael Jackson is an impostor. Somehow Scientology is involved, which seems perfectly natural.

Holes in the Head

Holey cow! Meet Bart Hughes, who advocates releasing our brains from the total imprisonment of our skulls. After all, babies' skulls have holes and aren't babies happy? This is an article about Hughes rather than by him, but where else where you see a line like, "Joey's first attempt at self-trepanation was a fiasco"? If this site isn't available, try here or here for other versions of the same article.

If you are inspired by the links above, then you're no doubt in the market for your very own Do It Yourself Home Self-Trepanation Kit. You need it like you need a hole in the head. Get yours while supplies last. "Easy to use -- no prior experience required."

Human Understood Reincarnation or Resurrecting the Dead

I almost placed this one under the Science friction category, but figured that it defies classification. The field of "kookology" got its start when serious-minded folks started examining many of those cheaply-produced pamphlets and tracts that are ubiquitous in large urban centers. Researchers quickly noticed common styles, methods, and techniques employed by otherwise disparate ranters/visionaries/True Believers. With its abundance of close-formatted text, boldface sections, piecemeal logic, and multi-limbed connections to wonky science and Judeo-Christian prophecies, this site is one of the closest electronic equivalents of those pamphlets I've found on the WWW. And like many of the old-fashioned tracts, it's difficult to tell what this thing is all about. Plus, I was stunned to find that this site is an offshoot of the theories/teachings of none other than our own A.A. Brown.

"...God is the Gravitational and electromagneti field in which the Universe is situated. Prophets or seerers look into the future and fortell Events as fortold by God by resonating to the time tunnel or vibration in the Earth's Electromagnetic field, as modulated by the planets and the Sun. The Human body is made up of C, N, H, NH4 groups, sugar, carbohydrates, DNA, RNA, CHromosomes, Glonoids, Glands, etc which ACT AS Transistors, IC, (Integrated circuits, Resistors, capacitors, which renders the body to act and respond as a Transponder, Broadcasting Human Radar and Computer. The brain broadcast out 'life force' or human bio life cycle waves which is reflected by the Van Allen's Belt as (it in turn) is induced and / or modulated by the planets..."

IDEAL ORDER Psychic TV

"...In 1984 IdeAL ORDER Psychic TV began a nightly zapping of the CBS Evening News and the McNeil/Lehrer News Hour and constant telepathic harassment of the Reagan administration during televised news conferences and news show appearances..."

A.D. 2012: the year of living strangely

Read through enough High Weirdness tracts and you find a number of recurring (i.e., borrowed, appropriated, assimilated, plagiarized) themes and dogmas. Among them is the notion that Something Big is going to happen in the year 2012 (or thereabouts). As with any quasi-religious set of belief systems, the details vary from denomination to denomination. Here's a sample of some of the 2012 prognostications I've come across lately:

- 2012: "...we feel this is leading to a quantum transition from 'the third dimension' into 'the fifth dimension' for the portion of the population that is aligning itself with the vibrations of Love and Light..."
- Are You Ready for Ascension 2012? Well, are you?
- Judgement Day: A text file detailing the 2012 "Judgement Day" and the "Harvest of people." It's definitely not what you heard about in Sunday School.
- New Age: Ascension: A mish-mash of New Age tropes with emphasis on the "coming dimensional shift" of 2013. (Part of the Norwegian Center for Cosmic Awareness, which is an even larger mish-mash.)
- Earthgate: Truly weird. "... The project will continue into the fall of 1998, but it prepares for the climax in 2012/2013, in which the Mayan calendar will end. Then the heart of the Earth will connect energetically with the Great Central Sun, a great cosmic chakra in the center of the Milky Way galaxy..."
- The Pleiadean Agenda: According to this smoochy New Age best-seller, super-nice aliens from the Pleiades star cluster (inaccurately described, by the way), are preparing us for a "Cosmic Party" that will occur on the Winter solstice of 2012. (A True Believer's review of the book appears here.)
- Time travel with your new Hyperdimensional Resonator today!: This bears repeating from Science friction above because this self-proclaimed time traveler warns us that when the Sinister Secret Government "sent scientists from the Montauk project into Earth's future, they...found that all life on the planet had been wiped out" sometime in 2012. Oooh, scary, kids.
- 2012 is even part of this New Age I.Q. test (now stop snickering).
