"I had three objects in visiting Chicago," he said. "The first was to establish a popular-priced eating place for men and women, such as we have in New York. The second was the formation and location of a new corps, and the third to get a glimpse of the World's Fair." Commander Booth will make special efforts to reach the thousands of strangers who will visit the Fair this summer.

The Coroner's Jury Investigates the Roehl Case—Other Casualties.

A Coroner's jury yesterday held an inquest on the body of Henry M. C. Roehl, a carpenter who died Tuesday by falling through the roof of a shed belonging to the north branch of the Illinois Steel company. The verdict censured the company for not taking the proper precautions, but the testimony also showed that Roehl might have saved himself if he had not lost his presence of mind. He was 52 years old and leaves a wife and three children living at No. 709 North Paulina street.

Yesterday afternoon Frank Williamson, while engaged in shingling the roof of Ripley's livery stable, at the corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Seventieth street, missed his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of thirty feet. LECTURE ON HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

Mrs. Emma P. Ewing Employed by the Columbian Association of Housekeepers.

The Columbian Association of Housekeepers met yesterday morning in the Athenaeum Building and listened to an address by Mrs. Emma P. Ewing, instructor in the art of housekeeping at the National Conferences of the Chautauqua Union. The ladies were considering the advisability of employing Mrs. Ewing to give lessons daily in the model kitchen at the World's Fair during June and October, and she was asked what benefit would be derived therefrom. She said it would show that they were in earnest in their outlined work and moreover advance their theory of good food making good men as well as good cattle. After she had explained the matter it was decided to ask for the use of the kitchen for June and October, the lady being engaged for July and August with the Chautauqua Union. It was Mrs. Ewing who persuaded the Iowa State University authorities to inaugurate a department of household science in their school. It is on the same basis as the other branches and is the first of the kind in the world. Kate H. Watson, Chairman of the Market committee, told the ladies what household necessities cost in Chicago. She said this city compared favorably with cities both East and South.

CALL IT A NEW SUBTERFUGE.

Hyde Park Aldermen Denounce Counselor Kraus and His Liquor Opinion.

Aldermen from the Hyde Park prohibition district are disgusted with the recent opinion of Corporation Counsel Kraus relative to the selling of liquor in World's Fair hotels. They say the opinion is a mere pretense, and opens the district to the saloon element. In their opinion the man may set up a grocery, and provide he sells a sandwich or some article of food to his customers, may sell as much liquor as he likes. Ald. Edward Noble says the matter will be taken before the Council, but he expects no good can be done.

Ald. Bartine says a fight will surely be made on the opinion by his constituents and that he will lead it. He thinks it a forlorn hope, however.

Corporation Counsel Kraus says this talk is nonsense. No groceries will be allowed in Hyde Park. They are not included in the list of places that may sell liquor. When the Fair is over the prohibitory ordinance will be again enforced.

Chief McClughry has sent the opinion out to his officers. He says it was delivered for guidance of his actions and he sees nothing to do but follow the line laid out.

The two men met yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock. "I understand you have been circulating false reports about me," said Hynes, advancing toward Willett. "I want to tell you you are a loafer." With that Mr. Hynes' foot and fist shot out simultaneously, striking Willett on different portions of the body. The latter succeeded in getting out of the way of a second attack, and at this juncture friends of both parties interfered.
